

CSCE 190: Github Problem Statement

The time given at the cross walks around Columbia city blocks are typically not enough to actually allow pedestrians to cross safely. Also, there is often too much wait time even while there's no cars coming to make crossing a problem. There needs to be a more effective system implemented so that both people and cars can get across safely and efficiently.